MONDAY MORNING, MARCH 29, 1858.

HAT THAT MAKES THE GENTLEMAN. Of all articles of dress, says the Boston Courier, none has so much influence upon the opinion of the public as the hat. A "shocking bad hat" is the expression of the extremes of disapprobation of the man who wears it. We do not think an opinion of character founded upon a fact of this kind is absolutely to be relied upon. We can conceive of a man's wearing a shocking bad bat and being a good citizen, an exemplary father of a family, an honest man, and even a Christian. But we admit | Ga., in public, on Saturday, April 24th, 1858. the prima facie evidence is against it. Look at the criminals in the dock: they are without a single exception persons distinguished by the badness of their hats. The first step towards reforming a convict is to give him a new hat. A new hat excites in the first place, the emotion-it may be a deceptive one-of respectability. The man who puts it on, feels like a gentleman; it may be a mistaken feeling. He walks the street with the consciousness of seeming virtuous, if not of being so. All great philosophers know that nothing has a more powerful tendency, to make a man good, than to consider and treat him as such; and universally, the man who wears a good hat is held to be a good man until the opposite is proved. A constable would never arrest a well hatted man on mere suspicion. He would require the oath of at least two respectable witnesses. | 5,000 Prizes of 20 are The case against him must be flagrant, or so rash an act.

On the other hand, the wearer of a bad bat; one knocked in at the side; jammed down at the top; filled with dust, because it is innocent of the brush; worn in the rim down to the smooth; such a person is a just object of public suspicion. He cannot help looking like a miserable rogue; a mere varlet. He sneaks along near the protecting fronts of street shops; he shrinks from notice; he can hardly stand up like a man, in the presence of men. If he has a case in court, it is sure to go against him, however clearly the law subscription paper, in behalf of the most deserving charity, the greatest philanthropists enub and refuse him. Who would venture and the two succeeding Numbers to those draw into the presence of his mistress, in such a | ing the first 7 Prizes, will be entitled to the 28 hat, and not expect an instant dismissal?-Who would dare put the question to the idol of his idolatry, in such a hat? What woman of proper sensibility would not reject, without a moment's hesitation, a suitor at her feet, whose hat was open to any one of the above criticisms? Mr. Peter Magnus was quite right to be anxious about the hat, of which he said that money would not buy such another, when on his way to make proposals to the middle-aged lady. A great moral truth is illustrated in the story of this gentleman's wooing and its result, so well told in Pickwick. It becomes, then, a high social and moral duty not only to give heed to our ways, but to our bate!

TRIUMPH OF MIND OVER MATTER. Dr. Elder, in his biography of Dr. Kane, relates that he once asked him, after his return from his last Arctic expedition, "for the best proved instance that he knew of the soul's power over the body-an instance that might push the hard-barked philosophy of materialism to the consciousness of its own idiocy." He paused a moment, and then said, with a spring, "The soul can lift the body out of its boots, sir. When our captain was dying-I say dying, I have seen scurvy enough to know-every old scar in his body was a runing ulcer. If conscience festers under its wounds correspondingly, hell is not hard to understand. I never saw a case so bad that either lived or died. Men die of it ore they are so ill as he was There was trouble aboard; there might be mutiny. So soon as the breath was out of his body, we might be at each other's throats. I felt that he owed even the repose of dying to the service. I went down to his bunk, and shouted in his ear 'Mutiny, captain, mutiny!' up, he said, and order these fellows before either of those cities. me.' He heard the complaint, ordered punishment, and from that hour convalesced .-Keep that man awake with danger, and he wouldn't die of anything until his duty was

THREE KINDS OF PREACHING.

An English merchant visiting Scotland in A. D. 1650, and being asked on his return what he had heard, answered, "Rare things! I went to St. Andrew's where I heard a ma jestic looking man (Blair,) and he showed me the majesty of God. After him I heard a little fair man (Rutherford,) and he showed me the loveliness of Christ. I then went to Irvine, where I heard an old man (Dickson,) and that man showed me my own heart!"

To the Voters of Alexandria: - As some persons seem determined to misrepresent my position, and are still engaged in circulating the report that I have declined being a candidate for the Sheriffalty, I deem it due to myself to state, that such report (whether the offspring of "political trickery" or not,) is an unqualified falsehood—maliciously invented and secretly circulated, for the sole purpose of defeating my election. I now announce myself a candidate, and pledge myself to do my whole duty, if elected. [mh 4-eotE] JAMES SANGSTER.
